

MAY IT RING FOREVER!

WHAT PRICE PATRIOTISM?

They were men of means and well educated—yet they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well the price they'd pay. What happened to them?

Five signers were captured by the British as traitors and tortured before they died. Twenty had their homes ransacked and burned. Nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or the hardships of the war.

Carter Braxton, a wealthy trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy. He told his home to pay his debts and died bankrupt.

Thomas McKean was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family constantly and to keep in hiding. His possessions were taken and he was reduced to poverty.

British soldiers or vandals looted the properties of William Elmyr, George Clymer, Syrus Hall, George Walton, Button Gwinnett, Thomas Heyward, Edward Rutledge and Arthur Middleton.

At the Battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson Jr. noted that the British General Cornwallis had taken over the Nelson home as his headquarters. Nelson urged General Washington to open fire. The home was destroyed and Nelson died bankrupt.

Francis Lewis had his home and property destroyed. The British killed his wife and she died within a few months.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His fields and grist mill were destroyed. For more than a year he lived in fear of his wife dead and his children vanished. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion.

Robert Morris and Phillip Livingston suffered similar fates. Such are the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution. These men HAD security, but they valued liberty more.

Rep. E.S. Roberts Reports On Reapportionment Plan

"Contrary to a previous prediction on my part, The Florida State Legislature, on Tuesday, passed a re-apportionment plan," State Representative Emmett S. Roberts reported.

This plan calls for a 58-man senate and 109 member house of representatives and adds two Senate seats and one House member to the Palm Beach Delegation, Palm Beach County.

Should this plan stand up under the court test, this will give us three Senators and five House members.

"In my opinion," Roberts continued, the legislature passed this bill only after the Federal District Court last week issued a warning that they would re-apportion, starting July 7, if the Florida Legislature had not passed a plan. With this threat hanging over their heads, members of the small county block, although reluctant, began to desert their hold-the-line position."

"When the Senate passed their plan last Friday, it became apparent over the weekend that we in the House at last had a majority for a fair plan. Several of us from the large and medium size counties met both Saturday and Sunday to reach agreement. With few exceptions this coalition held firm through Monday in fighting off a fractional voting plan. On final passage the bill received over a two-thirds margin and now goes to the court to be tested.

In my opinion, the court will probably allow this to stand, but will require that further improvements be made in the next session. Some of the districts in the plan vary widely in population."

"I am disappointed that we are unable to pass a constitutional amendment," Roberts noted. However, once we get this reapportionment accomplished with new bodies a good constitutional amendment can be offered to the public to vote on."

"Beginning Wednesday, we take up Congressional redistricting and another battle will start over. Sixth District under congressman Paul Rogers is one of the largest in the United States with over 860,000 people. I hope to combine two small north Florida districts into one, and move another district to south Florida," Roberts continued. "I regret that we did not take up congressional redistricting first, as I feel it will be more difficult now."

"Reapportionment of all kinds could be over by Friday—let us hope so," the State Representative's report continued.

Rep. E. S. Roberts May Make Bid For Senate Seat

Representative Emmett S. Roberts of Palm Beach County issued the following observation from Tallahassee today:

"With the passage of this re-apportionment plan I am encouraged to seriously consider offering myself for one of the newly created Senate seats from Palm Beach County next year. The experience and background I have gained from six terms in the House of Representatives would be most helpful in organization of the Legislature under the new re-apportionment plan. The opportunity of serving under a more even distribution of voting power would be most inviting," Roberts said.

"I have fought every reapportionment battle since 1955, including numerous special sessions, having met with many disappointments in the past and never achieving fair apportionment. Although this plan has some discrepancies, it does give the more populated counties a majority of the legislative seats."

Cub Scouts Of Pack 622 Get A Kick Watching Big Sea Turtle Lay Eggs

A jolly good time was experienced by 51, including Cub Scouts of Pack 622, fathers and leaders at the father and son cookout and turtle hunt last Friday afternoon and evening held at Juno Beach.

Dr. Jim Winchester, pack committee man, was in charge. The loaded cars left Jamison Hall at 5:30 sharp. On arriving at the beach they enjoyed a cookout of hot dogs and all the trimmings and played on the beach, for awhile. James M. Pearce, Wildlife Conservation officer of Juno was on hand to conduct the turtle hunt. He gave highlights on conservation and a history of the sea turtles.

When dark came they took off looking for turtles and found several. The turtles were taken to the beach and after the turtle laid they found the eggs which some of the kids described as looking like ping pong balls.

It was an interesting and informative trip and was enjoyed by all. The Cub Scouts who didn't go, don't know what a thrilling time they missed.

Your Library

New library books devoted to literature, to poetry in particular, make an imposing heap. We stacked them, and we know.

Among purchases have been the complete poetic works of Edgar Allan Poe, Alfred Lord Tennyson, Paul Laurence Dunbar, John Greenleaf Whittier, E. E. Cummings (1923-1944). James Russell Lowell, and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

This concentration on poetry was accelerated by the purchase of a new index to Poetry, early in the year. It indexes 574 anthologies, and its use is limited by the number of those anthologies which are included.

Other poets represented in new volumes are John Massfield, SALT WATER POEMS (1964), and THE COLLECTED POEMS OF EDNA ST. VINCENT MILLAY, COLLECTED POEMS OF VACHEL LINDSAY, and WALT WHITMAN'S AMERICA, by James Davidson.

Anthologies and their editors include THE WINGED HORSE ANTHOLOGY, Auslander, THE NEW POCKET ANTHOLOGY OF AMERICAN VERSE, Williams, WELCOME CHRISTMAS, and THE WINGED HORSE ANTHOLOGY, Auslander.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Laniers chose the steamship "Florida" for a cruise 27 years ago, following their marriage in Albany, Georgia, on June 21, and this year the couple celebrated their wedding anniversary aboard the same ship.

Time had brought a few changes... they were chaperones on the Nassau cruise for the 1965 Senior group, which included their son Danny.

Fellow passengers gave them a big hand of applause when the repeat incident was announced to some 500 aboard the steamship by the chief steward, James A. Durand.

The Laniers are also parents of a grown daughter, Ouida, who is now working on her master's degree in Emory University, and will graduate in August.

TODAY'S Meditation

Read Matthew 17:14-21

Which of you by asking thought can add one cubit unto his stature.—Matthew 6:27

The little boy jumped down from his chair at the dining room table and ran to stand beside his father. Stretching his frame as far as he could, he asked, "Am I big enough now, Dad?"

This was a daily ritual, for the father had promised him a dog when he became big enough to own one. The boy did not think of this as being something in the far-distant future—it was something attainable right away. He was not growing by being anxious; he was growing by eating plenty of nourishing food each meal, and he wanted a daily check on his progress.

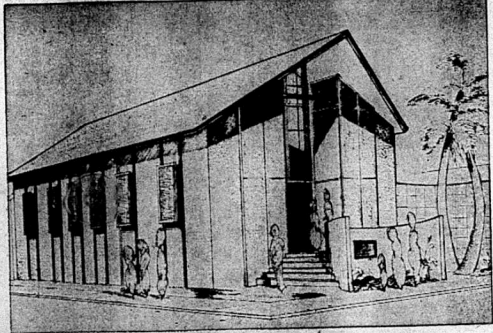

Jesus said: "Ask, and ye shall receive," but sometimes we are not big enough for what we ask. Let us not waste our time in anxieties, but have faith in God and continue our spiritual growth. We can measure our progress, not by asking, "Am I big enough now, Father?" but by the way we measure up to the fullness of Christ.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, may we be thankful each day to receive what God provides, content in the knowledge that Thou set our guide in all of life. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Oh, that my spiritual growth today may measure up to what God expects!

Present Church Of God . . . Building Is 25 Years Old

A more attractive and convenient church building is in the near future for the Church of God. Final plans (above) have been prepared by Architects Penny & Dekosch for the remodeling of the present sanctuary.

This is a continuing phase of the building program now underway by the Belle Glade Church. Rev. Madison W. Sindle said. After a year of planning, actual construction began last Oct. 1, 1964 on the new Sunday School Annex, Fellowship Hall and modern kitchen. This building is completed and is now occupied. All of the church services are being conducted now in this annex and have been since March 14.

On completion of the annex, the church proper will be lowered and fluorescent lighting will be installed. The choir platform will be altogether redesigned for more light and the ceiling will be raised and slanted towards the congregation for better sound.

A large portion of the construction will be done by members and donated labor, as was the case with the Sunday School Annex. Rev. Sindle, the pastor and his congregation will be striving to complete the church by November 28, the date set for the Church of God Annual Homecoming Day. All gifts to the church of God building fund are tax deductible and will be greatly appreciated.

Freedom Is Our Most Precious Possession

By Lewis Llewellyn

"If the Son, therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."
Though there may be a few craven souls who would say today, "Better Red than dead," there are many who agree with Patrick Henry's famous declaration, "Give me liberty or give me death!"

Political liberty is a priceless inheritance, bequeathed to us by our forefathers and defended whenever it has been threatened.

FREEDOM UNDER GOD

Our nation's early history shows clearly a recognition of the importance of relying on God for help in trying times.

There was then no question but that it was right and proper to read the Bible and pray at the beginning of the day in our schools.

The Liberty Bell carries an inscription from the Bible, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

Many Americans would feel more secure about the continued retention of all of our freedoms as American citizens, over a long period of time, if the nation were to turn again to an open recognition of our dependence upon God for "every good and every perfect gift . . . from above."

But the freedom of which Jesus was speaking when He said, "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed," was not political freedom but spiritual freedom.

Important and desirable as political freedom is, spiritual freedom is vastly more vital. Jesus considered the cause of setting men free from sin to be worth the sacrifice of His life, to pay the price of our freedom from the domination of the devil.

The Bible says, "Scarcely for a righteous man will one die. Yet peradventure for one good man some would even dare to die. But God commendeth His love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

FREEDOM FROM SIN

Through His sacrifice, He has opened the way for us to be "free from the law of sin and death."

As Americans we can be happy that we can walk this earth as free men.

But Christians, we can rejoice that our freedom extends to the realm of the spirit—that we have truly been set free from the guilt and the penalty of sin.

If you don't have this freedom, God wants you to accept it. His invitation, for the promise is unto you . . . and to all that are afar off!—even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

If you will receive and accept Him as your Savior, He will grant you this freedom, too. John 8:36.

A Thought From The Bible

"GREAT SOCIETY" NEEDS "TRUE FOUNDATION"

By Lewis Llewellyn
"If the foundations be destroyed, what can the righteous do?"

We can build a Great Society on a crumbling foundation. We are all proud of the achievements of our scientists and space explorers.

We applaud every effort to raise the standard of living of the people, in this land or any other, who are still living in poverty.

But every sound building must have a strong foundation. And there are many today who are disturbed about the erosion of our national standards of morality, honesty and integrity.

These are the foundations on which a society is built. A leading national magazine reports that 33 percent of the Americans questioned in a recent survey stated that they were "not at all satisfied" with our moral climate. Another 38 percent said that they were only "somewhat" satisfied.

SOMETHING WRONG
More than two thirds of our people feel that there is something wrong with the way our nation is going!

While adults are frequently blame the deterioration of morality on the teen-age population, young people say the problem is that parents are not strict enough and that many adults provide "bad examples."

Isn't it time to ask ourselves some serious questions about where we are headed?

Jesus told a story about two men who built houses. One built on a firm foundation but the other, scorning to spend time and money on a foundation, put forth all his effort in making the structure beautiful and comfortable.

Both houses served their owners well till the time of storm and adversity came. The one with a strong foundation stood, while the other collapsed.

HURRICANE

Drill Conducted By Army Engineers

A one-day "mock" hurricane drill was staged by the Clewiston office of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers on Monday, June 22, to test the effectiveness of flood fighting plans on the perimeter of the 740-square-mile lake.

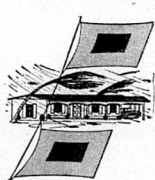

Army Engineers, designers and constructors of the vast 18-county Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project, have the responsibility for operation of all the major water control structures and hurricane gates around Lake Okechobee and on the two primary outlets from the lake — the Caloosahatchee River to the west and the St. Lucie River to the east.

The Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District—the state agency—has responsibility for operation of the outlying pumping stations and water control facilities.

Last year Florida, bore the brunt of two damaging hurricanes, neither of which caused any major problems over the giant saucer-like lake which is the liquid heart of the flood control project. But old-timers in Florida well remember the hurricanes of 1926 and 1928 which swept across Lake Okechobee and caused the loss of more than 2,000 lives.

The storms of the late 20's brought about the start of construction of the $380 million complex of canals, dikes and water control structures, and residents of the area now live in shadows of the protective levees, without fear of the awesome power of the sprawling body of water. Although the flood control project is less than 50 percent completed, its benefits are considered to be far greater than the cost of improvements made so far.

Be Informed

High winds associated with hurricanes react violently on the shallow lake waters, causing towering waves and a pickup of water on the downwind side. But massive earth levees surrounding the lake have a base more than 350 feet wide and stand 20 feet or more tall. These dikes, some of which are protected by tree islands inside the lake break up the force of the wind-whipped waters. Six hurricane gates, which permit access to and from the lake under normal conditions, are manned by Army Engineers personnel when a hurricane threatens the lake area. The hurricane gates are closed or opened, depending upon wind direction.

The hurricane gates and other control structures are positioned to absorb the punishment inflicted by high winds and protect the residents of the area by preventing excessive flooding.

Glades Heads Attend Ag Meeting

Mills H. Byrom of U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Belle Glade, Florida and Franklin Jones of the U. S. Sugar Corp. were in Athens, Georgia last week attending the 1965 Annual Meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at the University of Georgia.

Nearly 2,000 agricultural engineers and specialists from throughout the United States and as far away as India came to the meeting to exchange information and ideas on the rapidly enlarging role of the agricultural engineer in today's scientifically-oriented world.

Original research and new designs and concepts in the science and art of engineering in agriculture were revealed at the meeting as agricultural engineers sought new ways to improve agriculture through the application of engineering fundamentals.

A special session on new tractor developments included reports on the garden tractor, now gaining rapidly in popularity, and a new rubber-wheeled tractor for skidding logs from forest to water's edge. The dramatic role that the nation's agricultural engineers will play in solving "traction problems from the ocean floor to the moon" was the subject of a full day panel session.

Among other subjects discussed at the meeting were progress in forage preservation, harvesting aids for tree fruits, new concepts in cotton cultural practices, and "Remarkable the Surface of the Earth to Fit Man's Needs."

PLATINUM, Alaska — Airman Second Class Marvin R. Hendry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hendry of 429 E. Trinidad St. Clearwater, Fla., has arrived for duty at Cape Newenham Air Force Station, Alaska.

Airman Hendry, a construction equipment repairman, previously served at MacDill AFB, Fla. His new unit is part of the Alaskan Air Command which guards the northwestern approaches to this country.

The airman attended Marathon (Fla.) High School.

A commercial fish dealers license, in addition to regular fishing license, is needed to take non-game fish by trot lines with more than 25 hooks.

Florida's fishing regulations are violated when fresh water fish are taken illegally. If they are transported across the state line it becomes a Federal violation.

Rainfall In So. Florida Raises Water Storage

Extensive rainfall during the past several weeks over the southern end of Fla. has broken an extended drought over the area and has made possible the filling of one reservoir and the dumping of excess water into an auxiliary conservation area, the Army Corps of Engineers has announced.

Joe J. Koperski, chief of the Corps' engineering division, said two-week rain-falls totaling 5-6 inches over an area stretching from Clewiston to West Palm Beach and southerly along the coastline has raised the level of stored water in Conservation Area 1 over the reservoir's regulation schedule and on June 23 began to be discharged by gravity into Conservation Area AB.

Conservation Area 1, a 220-square-mile reservoir west of Boynton Beach and Delray Beach, has as a result of recent rainfall and pumpage from the agricultural areas south of Lake Okechobee been raised above its desired regulation schedule of 14.2 feet above mean sea level. This means, Koperski said, that two gates on S-10D between Conservation Area 1 and Conservation Area 2 will be raised to permit some 400 cubic feet per second of water to flow into the 172-square-mile Conservation Area 2. Conservation Area 2 is slightly below regulation schedule, but as soon as it reaches desired water elevation, excess water will be allowed to flow into the largest of the three storage reservoirs, Conservation Area 3. All of the reservoirs are a part of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project, which is about 40 per cent complete.

Army Engineers said it takes about 3 weeks for the 20,000 acre feet of water to flow from Conservation Area 1 into Conservation Area 2. Some 200,000,000 gallons of water per day is discharged from Conservation Area 1 into Conservation Area 2 during the next few weeks as two gates on S-10D have been raised a half foot to permit the excess water to flow under the bottom of the gates.

Rainfall over Everglades Park during the past two weeks has been lighter than that experienced immediately south of Lake Okechobee or along the lower Gold Coast. However, weather bureau estimates show that about 4 inches of rain has wetted the park during this period. This has not solved the park's water problem, but it has offered some temporary relief.

Once the water level in the 780-square-mile Conservation Area 3 can be raised to desired level, the Park and the Miami area will be assured of adequate water supplies to carry them through most normal droughts. Rainfall in the area, however, has been insufficient to allow the pool to fill with water since it was completed in 1952. Once filled, or even partially filled, it will provide extensive water storage for use during periods of drought.

Dr. Harold C. Manor To Lecture At U Of N. C. Dentistry Workshop

Dr. Harold C. Manor, President of Palm Beach Junior College will combine his vacation with a lecture engagement at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on July 8 and 9. Dr. Manor will lecture at the College of Dentistry at a workshop which is being held for the training of teachers in the Dental Assistants program. The course is especially for those who wish to prepare as staff members in the junior college program. Others included in the workshop program are a consultant from the United States Office of Health, Education and Welfare, a representative of the American Dental Association, and an instructor from a San Diego Junior College.

Special emphasis is being placed on training in unified school district as well as in teaching and course construction. The history of the development and organization of programs in the junior college will also be discussed at the workshop. PBJC expects to plan their dental assistants course through the coming school year and offer the program in the fall of '66. The local college expects to hire one or more staff members during the coming year to prepare specifications and help to plan the new curriculum.

Dr. Manor expects to return to the PBJC campus on Monday, July 12.

Dr. Myron Blee Moves To Florida Atlantic

Dr. Myron Blee, who has served as director of the Florida Institute for Continuing University Studies since its creation in 1961, will assume a new position as associate academic affairs at Florida Atlantic University, July 1. FAU president, Dr. Kenneth R. Williams, announced the appointment which was acted upon by the Board of Regents in Tallahassee today. He expressed his pleasure that a man who was closely associated with the planning studies for FAU would be coming to the new state university.
